

CONNECTICUT POST

Incorporating The Bridgeport Post and The Telegram and The Valley Sentinel

EDITORIAL BOARD

Robert H. Laska, Publisher/President

Frank J. Keegan, Editor

Michael J. Daly, Managing Editor

Stephen J. Winters, Editorial Page Editor

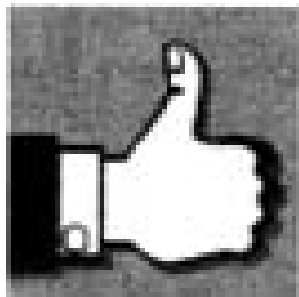

July 27, 2002

Page A8

EDITORIALS

Best and the rest for the past week

Thumbs up to Bridgeport's Discovery Museum's most recent creative exhibit: DigNubia. This program incorporates a fun-filled activity center along with a wonderful educational experience for summer school students in grades three through six in Bridgeport, enabling them to further enrich their math and science skills. Designed to exhibit the rich and ancient culture of the Nubians of Northern Africa, the exhibit has not only a mock archeological dig, but also features hands-on activities that places the student-as-an-archeologist in tents, tombs and even a chapel. Besides digging for artifacts, the children are able to make jewelry relevant to the Nubian culture and create African mirrors.